

A Note About This Year's Labor Day Theme & Slogan

Use Your TEACHER VOICE At The BALLOT BOX!

While it is a colloquialism ... the idea of using our TEACHER VOICE to be heard isn't just about being a teacher – it's about being any person in education who has had to use a “unique and distinguished” tone of voice to be heard and obeyed.

Para's, T-C,s, Early Childhood, School Security, Subs and so many more ... all have “that voice” ready when it's truly needed.

In fact, if you think about it, we've all got a TEACHER VOICE inside of us.

It is the definitive tone a parent uses to tell a child to stop drinking out of the carton, to not put a fork in an outlet, or to stop fighting in the back seat or “else.”

It is the voice of absolute command a first responder uses (or a babysitter uses or a laborer uses, etc. ...) to get a serious point across as forcefully and quickly as possible. A voice that can stop traffic. That quiets a room. That demands attention.

A voice that, when heard with other like-minded voices, can be heard loud and clear at the City-County Building. Or in Harrisburg. Or Washington D.C.

This year, no matter who you are or what you do or where you fall across the political divide, you MUST use your “Teacher Voice” at the ballot box.
